

O3EJS-1

以下は兄弟AB の会話である。動詞の時制に注意して、和訳せよ。

A: Did you see Mom?

B: Yeah, when I got up, she was cooking miso soup for breakfast. Our breakfast had been ready before I washed my face.

A: Where is she now?

B: Maybe in the garden. She is always taking care of her morning glories recently. She's planning to show them in an exhibition.

A: She would often watch Korean dramas on TV until two years ago. Now she's different from what she used to be.

B: Aren't we going to have a birthday party for our uncle this afternoon?

A: Right. Do you remember when his birthday is?

B: No, but I'm sure he will have become forty by next month.

A: Do you know if his wife will come?

B: I haven't heard if she'll come, but if she comes, she'll probably bring some sweets for us.

A: I hope so. Have you prepared anything special to give him?

B: Of course! I've bought a travel ticket to Hokkaido so he will be riding horses this time next month.

A: Sounds great. He'll love that, as he's long been in love with horses.

Mom: Hey, boys! Let's get ready for the party. Your uncle is about to arrive.